C-Breeze

As a cruising sailor, you live for a day on the water. Maybe you are lucky enough to string it into days for a trip up the coast. The choice you make in sailcloth is important. Is it one that will perform as expected and deliver you, worry free, to your next landfall?

Performance is essential. The material you choose must maximize the output of your sail plan, while providing the confidence that it will pass the test, come what may, and return to safe harbor.

C-Breeze by Dimension-Polyant is the perfect choice for the all-around cruising sailor. Performance and durability are achieved with a tighter weave of high tenacity fibers in both the warp and fill directions of the fabric. This provides overall strength and stretch-resistance under load.

Let us introduce you to C-Breeze, the sail material by Dimension-Polyant that has the durability to perform for you, no matter where you draw the rhumb line on the map.
